

Alexandria, VA

IV

Jan. 23, 1812

Concord Gazette
Feb. 04, 1812

A shock of an Earthquake was distinctly felt in this town yesterday morning, about 20 minutes after nine o'clock. Its duration was supposed to be about thirty seconds, and its motion from N.W. to S.E. Considerable sensations was excited by this event.