

Fort St. Stephens, AL

V

Dec. 16, 1811

The Western Intelligencer
Feb. 21, 1812

Fort St. Stephens, December 24

On Sunday night the 15th inst. the earth shook here so as to shake the fowls off their roosts, and made the house shake very much, again it shook at sunrise and at 11 o'clock the next morning, and at the same time the third day after. }

Accounts are brought in from the nation that several hunting Indians who were lately on the Missouri have returned, and state that the earthquake was felt very sensibly there, that it shook down trees and many rocks of the mountains, and that every thing bore the appearance of an immediate dissolution of the world! We give this as we got it - it may be correct, but the probability is that it is not.