

Frankfort, KY

VI-VII

Feb. 07, 1812

The American Republic
Feb. 07, 1812

EARTHQUAKE

About half after three o'clock A. M. on this day, was felt in this place, another shock of an Earthquake, more violent, and durable than any heretofore felt. This is the fifty third day since the first shock was felt, no immediate nor immense number of vibrations have been perceived - but what is yet to come - as we don't know - we shan't say.